The Rivers and Canals:

River/Canals	Course	Tributaries/ Estuaries	More information
Ganga/ Padma	Touches the district at its northern-most point and flows south-west along the eastern boundary of the district.	Tributaries: Bhagirathi, Jalangi, Bhairab Estuary: Mahananda (Lalgola)
Bhagirathi	Branches off from the Ganga at Nurpur, 25 Km below Farakka, runs parallel to her for about 2 Km, winds its way to the South and leaves the district north of Plassey.		On its banks, mainly on the east, historic and wealthy towns like Murshadabad, Jangipur and Jiaganj lie.
Jalangi	Originates from the Ganga shifts eastwards, flows along the Murshidabad-Bangladesh boundary & then southward along the Murshidabad-Nadia boundary; then goes into Nadia district.	Estuary: Bhairab
Bhairab	Originates from the Ganga in Lalgola and meets the Jalangi to the north of Nadia district.		It is an old river and is partly deserted.
Bansoli	Enters Murshidabad from Birbhum near village Husainpur, flows east and falls into the Bhagirathi north of Jangipur.
Dwaraka / Babla	Enters Murshidabad from Birbhum near Morgram, flows eastward and then to the south-east, forms the eastern boundary of Kandi sub-division and leaves the district at Raghupur.	Estuaries: Mayurakshi & Kuiya (on the right bank)	Though a moderate river, it has several names and many small tributaries and estuaries. Its many backwaters and side channels also connect it with the Bhagirathi.
Brahmani	All originate from the hills of Birbhum, flows to the west and falls into the Dwaraka. All rivers meet at Hizal Beel of Kandi Sub-Division		All are hill streams with beds full of pebbles & yellow clay. Depath of river is reduced due to silt deposition.
Mayurakshi
Kuiya
Feeder Canal (Man-made Farakka Barrage Project)	Originates off the upstream of the Farakka barrage and falls into the Bhagirathi down stream of Jangipur Barrage.		Length: 26½ kms

LOCATION

Murshidabad district is situated between the latitudes  $24^{\circ}50'20''$  and  $23^{\circ}43'30''$  in the Northern Hemisphere. The eastern most proximity of the district is marked by  $88^{\circ}46'00''$  east longitude and its western most extremity by  $87^{\circ}49'17''$  east longitude.

It is located almost in the central position of West Bengal, this district plays an important role in connecting both the ends of Bengal. It also provides linkage with the rest of India through the corridor of Bihar. It has connected India with Bangladesh through its international border towards east of the district. It is the northern most district of the Presidency Division of the State of West Bengal.

II) BOUNDARIES, NATURAL DIVISIONS AND GEOLOGY

A. BOUNDARIES:

In shape, the district resembles an isosceles triangle with its apex pointing to the North-West. The Padma River flows through the entire eastern boundary, separating the district from Malda and Rajshahi (Bangladesh). Burdwan and Nadia are on the southern side and Birbhum and Pakur (Jharkhand) are on the western side of the District.

Self protection is the best policy

NATURAL DIVISIONS:

The river Bhagirathi has bifurcated the triangle shaped district and divided it into two broad geographical regions of almost equal area and having a striking difference in their geology, in the agricultural and habitational pattern and even in the religions of their inhabitants. The two regions are a) The Rarh Area & b) The Bagri Area .

a) The Rarh Area - This is the area to the west of the Bhagirathi having the predominant geographical character of a plateau. It is substantially a continuation of the Sub-Vindhyan region of laterite clay and nodular ghuting. The land is high, slightly undulating, but is interspersed with numerous swamps and beds of old rivers. The soil is greyish and reddish, rich in lime and iron oxide. The rivers in this part originate from hill torrents and they are prone to overflowing due to sudden rain.

Hijal: It is a tract within Rarh, situated in the south-west of the district near the confluence of the Mor and Dwarka, is about 50 sq. miles in area. Here the country becomes more open, and, in place of rice fields large stretches of thatching grass cover an almost treeless plain. During the rains, this area is widely inundated with water. Again, it becomes dry in the winter and a large portion of it is cultivated with Rabi crops.

b) The Bagri Area - This is the area to the east of the Bhagirathi formed by Gangetic alluvial deposit. This area was formed later than the Rarh Area. It lies entirely between the Ganga, the Bhagirathi and the Jalangi River. The area is low, is therefore, exposed to annual inundations resulting in fresh silt deposits, and hence it is very fertile. Various crops are grown here, not to be surpassed by any part of the State. The Kalantar bill is a continuation of Bagri in the south-eastern corner of the district and receives the drainage of the swampy rivers in the eastern part of the district. It is a very swampy tract of dark clay and it is good as a rice growing area.

GEOLOGY:

The tract of Bagri, lying east of Bhagirathi is covered with recent alluvium, consisting of sandy clay and sand along the course of the rivers, and fine silt consolidating into clay in the flatter parts of the plain; sometimes the areas form saucer-like depressions. A bank of stiff clay, gravels and calcareous nodules called ghuting forms the junction of the alluvium and higher grounds on the west of Bhagirathi. In the north-west of the district are some isolated clay hillocks.

The geological formations in the district are as follows:

Period	Soil Formation	Area of the district
Jurassic	Rajmahal Trap	Northern part
Pleistocene Recent	Older alluvium & Laterite clay	Western part
Recent	Alluvium	Eastern part

III. LINES OF DRAINAGE

The general inclination of the district, in the tract west of the Bhagirathi is from north - west to south - east; but in the tract east of Bhagirathi, the lines of drainage are somewhat irregular as the main rivers do not uniformly takes this direction. Though the western half of the district slopes eastwards toward the Bhagirathi, a number of the hill streams do not find their way directly into that river; they are intercepted by bils or marshes and for the most part are carried off to the south by the Dwarka. The two chief drainage basins in this part of the district are that of the Bansloi in the north and that of the Dwarka with its confluents, in the south. The large bils act as reservoirs during the flood by absorbing some of the excess water carried down by these streams, and also drain the excess water through the streams, emanating out of them.

The eastern half of the district may be described as an isosceles triangle. The Ganga (Padma) and the Bhagirathi forms the two equal sides; The Jalangi forms almost the entire base. However, the line of drainage is not along any of these rivers. The local rainfalls in this part of the district do not run off either into the Ganga or the Bhagirathi. The floods of these two great rivers converge towards each other, and ultimately make their way in a south - eastern direction. It may be roughly stated that the greater part of the surplus water ultimately falls into the Jalangi by means of the Gobranalah, the Bhairab and the Sialmari. During rainy seasons these canals, are connected with a number of bils, forming a network of water communication.

PEOPLE :

Like other parts of Bengal, there has been an inter-racial mixing in Murshidabad as well. The original inhabitants of the district are found among the Hindus & the Muslims. There have been immigrations in the ancient period from the Northern India (Karnary & Rajputana) and the Southern India (Karnat). During the Nawabi regime the Jains from Rajasthan came and settled here. Now they mostly live in the Jiaganj – Azimganj area. During the period of Sultani period, Turk, Arab and Persian immigrants also settled here ; but their numbers are few. Europeans from countries like England, France, Netherlands etc. settled here temporarily during the eighteenth century. But there are hardly any Europeans in the district now. There is a sizable number of Santhals in the Nabagram Block of Lalbagh Sub-Division. But they have also migrated about a hundred years ago from the neighbouring Birbhum district and other parts of the Chhotanagpur Plateau. Among other native communities Mal and Rajbansi communities need special mention. The Chais are peculiar in comparison with the demographic characteristics of this district and neighbouring Malda district.

EROSION:

River bank erosion is a burning problem of this district by which every year hundreds of family are being houseless and suffer indescribable pain, agony and harassment . 102 km of embankment of river Padma / Ganga from Farakka to Jalangi is vulnerable due to erosion. Some or other part within this length are being eroded every year. 45000 hector of land has been eroded to river Ganga / Padma. Which is to be prevented in the event of comprehensive plan with effective implementation by Irrigation Department

From 1931 to 1977, 26,769 hector lands have been eroded. Loss of cultivable land, homestead land and orchard has been increasing day by day, incurring heavily to the financial health of this district. Thousands of people have lost their dwelling houses.

In 1942 to 1958, 13 km Railway line from Baraswa to Azimganj was destroyed due to erosion of river Ganga near Nimita to Sankopore. NH -34 was shifted to the west side. Dhuliyani town has been shifted four times and now it is situated at 2 km. West of river Ganga. Higher Secondary School, Police Station and Highway of Jalangi, Raninagar, Bhagwangola, Lalgola has been shifted. Number of villages has submerged into river Ganga. River Ganga is coming closer and closer to river Bhagirathi day by day. Near Fajilpur of Raghunathganj -II Block, distance between Ganga and Bhagirathi is only 1.5 km. If these two rivers are mingled up due to bank erosion, the purpose of Farakka Barrage will become useless.

1980 -1990 is a decade of erosion of this district which badly affected Giria, Sekhalipur, Khejustala, Mithirpur, Fajilpur villages. In 2002 -2003, 694 nos. of families were completely shifted due to erosion, 612 no families in 2003 -2004 were shifted suffering loss of their dwelling houses, increasing migration and loss of employment opportunity. 613 nos of families in 2005 - 2006 were affected due to erosion.

During the year 2006-07, 1354 families are shifted due to erosion at Jalangi Block, 3 no. of Mouzas are fully washed away there. In 2007 , families are shifted in Lalgola Block due to erosion of river Padma. Apart from it, 97 families in Bhagwangola-I, 49 families in Bhagwangola-II, 40 families Farakka and 225 families Raninagra-II are forced to shift due to erosion.

During the year 2008 Bamnadab of Raninagar-II block affected by Erosion, 168 families in Raninagar-II block 205 families of Lalgola block 875 families in Bhagwangola-II block and 165 families at Bhagwangola-I block are shifted. Action is being taken by Farakka Barrage and Anti Erosion Division for Bank projection out of schemes approved by T.A.C.
