INTRODUCTION

Murshidabad District is endowed with extraordinary natural resources. Mayurakshi and its tributaries are coming from Birbhum and Jharkhand. Bhagrathi is bisecting the district through the middle while river Padma is forming the eastern boundary of the district. Erosion on the banks of Padma and Bhagirathi is a recurring problem while lightning cases result in deaths in the district. In dry season accidental fire is rampant causing to heavy loss of life and property. Road accident are also giving rise to disasters as happened recently at Balirghat Bridge.

Although, we cannot prevent flood always, we can strive to manage crisis more efficiently so that hazards do not degenerate into disasters. With a coherent and meaningful Disaster Management Strategy in place, it is quite possible to make our district resilient and prevent disasters in all its forms.

Appropriate evaluation and review of past disasters, proper planning and utilization of resources, deployment of manpower at appropriate places are key to an effective disaster management policy. This District Disaster Management Plan is an effort towards achieving of that goal.

Physiography

The entire district belongs to plain region. The river Bhagirathi, flowing from north to south through the district, which divides it into two equal portions form a striking contrast to each other in their geology, their physical characteristic, their agriculture .The tract to the west of the river is locally known as ‘Rarh’ and tract to the east as ‘Bagri’. Rarh is to the south of the Ganges and west of the Bhagirathi. Barendra is lying in the north of the Ganges between the Mahananda and Karatoya rivers, whereas ‘Bagri’ is positioned in between the South Bengal and Banga or Eastern Bengal. East of the Bhagirathi the country is low-lying and alluvial, with a humid climate and a fertile soil, which is liable to be flooded by the spill of the Bhagirathi and other rivers. On the western side the surface is high and undulating; the soil is hard clay, on which winter rice alone grows well and the climate is drier than the eastern tract.

Rivers and Streams

The river system composed of the Ganges and its distributaries, of which the most important are Bhagirathi, Jalangi, and Bhairab. Formerly large rivers with an active current, they are now merely spill channels of the great river, which during the rains carry off a portion of flood water but the remainder of the year have a very sluggish current . In 1974 due to the introduction of feeder canal from Farakka Barrage was connected with river Bhagirathi and thereafter the river became navigable. The rivers in the east of the district are fed to a certain extent during the dry season by infiltration from the Ganges but after the water agreement with Bangladesh the river Bhagirathi get 4000 m-s and in dry season Padma also get sufficient water and maintain its navigability. The other important streams are Bhramani, Mayurakshi, Dwarka, Sialmari, Gobra Nullah, Bansloi and Babla.

Climate

District Murshidabad belongs to humid tropical monsoon climatic region. According to District Meteorological Department there are very minor variation of temperature, rainfall and relative humidity in all over the district viz. north to south and west to east.
